Earning a professional designation is a rewarding experience. During the process, you will gain knowledge and experience that will be valuable to your career. IAAO designations signify exceptional competence. Earning a professional designation offers tangible and intangible benefits, which may include a salary increase or additional responsibilities. The benefits include increased confidence and credibility. Pride is perhaps the greatest benefit of all, in that you proved to yourself that you could set a goal and fulfill the requirements necessary for attaining that designation.

NORTH CAROLINA CANDIDATES CLUB

THE CANDIDATES CLUB

The Candidates Club was a dream of Joe Hunt's many years ago. He felt a need was going unmet in the appraisal field area. The position of county tax appraisers needed a more professional image. There was a lack of designations through professional appraisal entities and Joe felt like this lack of accreditation should be overcome. Therefore, Joe came up with the idea of promoting designations via the Candidates Club. In 1988 the club was officially formed to assist individuals in obtaining their professional designation. Sometime, years later, IAAO began promoting this concept and other chapters of Candidates' Clubs began to spring up in most states across America. Over the years, many appraisers have benefited from the resources provided through the Candidates Club.

The purpose of the N.C. Candidates Club is twofold. The Club is dedicated to providing assistance and help for the individual wishing to obtain a designation. This assistance is provided through the partnership of fellow designees and by other member appraisers throughout this state. There is always a large number of appraisers willing to help answer questions and share information starting from local appraisers to Revenue Department valuation specialists. Also, the Club was created to provide financial assistance to serious students. Designee help is provided each year by sponsoring selected classes to help candidates acquire the education needed to earn the designation sought. In addition, students striving for their designations, typically meet as a group and study together to prepare for future tests or projects. The bottom line is...you are not alone. The Club is here today to help you achieve a brighter future!
