The School of Government at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill works to improve the lives of North Carolinians by engaging in practical scholarship that helps public officials and citizens understand and improve state and local government. Established in 1931 as the Institute of Government, the School provides educational, advisory, and research services for state and local governments. The School of Government is also home to a nationally ranked Master of Public Administration program, the North Carolina Judicial College, and specialized centers focused on community and economic development, information technology, and environmental finance.

As the largest university-based local government training, advisory, and research organization in the United States, the School of Government offers up to 200 courses, webinars, and specialized conferences for more than 12,000 public officials each year. In addition, faculty members annually publish approximately 50 books, manuals, reports, articles, bulletins, and other print and online content related to state and local government. The School also produces the Daily Bulletin Online each day the General Assembly is in session, reporting on activities for members of the legislature and others who need to follow the course of legislation.

Operating support for the School of Government's programs and activities comes from many sources, including state appropriations, local government membership dues, private contributions, publication sales, course fees, and service contracts.

Preface and Acknowledgments

This publication is intended to serve as a guidebook for the growing number of counties and municipalities that are using the in rem foreclosure process to collect property taxes and other debts owed to local governments that are secured by liens on real property. It replaces the portions of William A. Campbell's Property Tax Lien Foreclosure: Forms and Procedures (6th ed. 2003) that concern in rem foreclosures.

The author is indebted to Professor Campbell for creating the foundation upon which this new publication rests. Equally important were the contributions of Valerie Curry, the deputy collections manager for the Orange County Tax Administration. By sharing invaluable practical insights on many of the issues discussed in the following pages, Ms. Curry greatly improved this publication.

Thanks are also offered to editor Melissa Twomey and her talented colleagues in the School of Government's Publications Division. Without their input and creativity this unique multi-media publication would not have been possible.
