

Popular Government

FALL 2009 • VOLUME 75, NUMBER 1 • FINAL ISSUE

Feature Articles

4 Communicating Financial Condition to Elected Officials in Local Government

William C. Rivenbark, Dale J. Roenigk, and Gregory S. Allison

Three of the School of Government's financial accounting experts collaborate on an approach for administrators to use in analyzing, interpreting, and communicating their local government's financial condition to elected officials.

14 Planning for Pedestrians and Bicyclists in North Carolina

Kelly R. Evenson, Sara B. Satinsky, Semra A. Aytur, and Daniel Rodríguez

What is known about policies and plans for walking and biking in North Carolina? Public health researchers and transportation planners offer an overview of pedestrian and bicycle plans in the state.

22 Constitutional Limits on Officers' Authority to Search Vehicles

Jeffrey B. Welty

A School of Government specialist in criminal law and procedure discusses the ramifications of a recent Supreme Court decision on searches incident to arrest.

24 Public Opinion on Land Use Policies

Christopher A. Cooper and H. Gibbs Knotts

In western North Carolina, a region with large parcels of underdeveloped and undeveloped land, how do residents feel about land use and zoning? Two professors surveyed a sample of residents to find out.

29 Legal Abandonment of Newborns: North Carolina's Safe Surrender Law

Janet Mason

In 2001, North Carolina enacted a safe surrender law to provide desperate parents with an alternative to abandonment of their infants. How does the law work, and how often has it been used?

Departments

3 NC Journal

Bulletin Explains Key Points of Law on Immunizations for Children • School Gets Grant to Study Economic Opportunities

37 At the School

School Mourns Passing of Wright • Vinroots Support School with $1 Million Pledge • School Initiates Blogs for Information, Education, Conversation • School Offers New Online Publications