N.C.P.I.--Civil 102.35 General Civil Volume Page 1--Final Page

CONTENTIONS OF NEGLIGENCE.

In this case, the plaintiff contends, and the defendant denies, that the defendant was negligent in one or more of the following ways:
(Read all contentions of negligence supported by the evidence.)

The plaintiff further contends, and the defendant denies, that the defendant's negligence was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's [injury] [damage].

I instruct you that negligence is not to be presumed from the mere fact of [injury] [damage].
(Give law as to each contention of negligence included above.)

