809.00 MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE—DIRECT EVIDENCE OF NEGLIGENCE ONLY.
(Use for claims arising before 1 October 2011. For claims arising on or after 1 October 2011, use N.C.P.I.—Civil 809.00A.)

The (state number) issue reads:

"Was the plaintiff [injured] [damaged]¹ by the negligence of the defendant?"

On this issue the burden of proof is on the plaintiff. This means that the plaintiff must prove, by the greater weight of the evidence, two things: (1) that the defendant was negligent; and (2) that such negligence was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's [injury] [damage].

As to the first thing that the plaintiff must prove, negligence refers to a person's failure to follow a duty of conduct imposed by law. Every health care provider² is under a duty

[to use his best judgment in the treatment and care of his patient]³

1 In death cases, this instruction can be modified to refer to the "decedent's death."

2 A "health care provider" is defined by N.C. Gen. Stat. § 90-21.11 as, "without limitation":

"any person who pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 90 of the General Statutes is licensed, or is otherwise registered or certified to engage in the practice of or otherwise performs duties associated with any of the following: medicine, surgery, dentistry, pharmacy, optometry, midwifery, osteopathy, podiatry, chiropractic, radiology, nursing, physiotherapy, pathology, anesthesiology, anesthesia, laboratory analysis, rendering assistance to a physician, dental hygiene, psychiatry, psychology"; or "a hospital or a nursing home [licensed under Chapter 131E]"; or "any other person who is legally responsible for the negligence of such person, hospital or nursing home"; or "any other person acting at the direction or under the supervision of any of the foregoing persons, hospital, or nursing home."

"A physician or surgeon who undertakes to render professional services must meet these requirements: (1) He must possess the degree of professional learning, skill and ability which others similarly situated ordinarily possess; (2) he must exercise reasonable care and diligence in the application of his knowledge and skill to the patient's case; and (3) he must use his best judgment in the treatment and care of his patient If the physician or

[to use reasonable care and diligence in the application of his knowledge and skill to his patient's care]⁴ [and]

[to provide health care in accordance with the standards of practice among members of the same health care profession with similar training and experience situated in the same or similar communities at the time the health care is rendered].⁵

A health care provider's violation of [this duty] [any one or more of these duties] of care is negligence.⁶

As to the second thing that the plaintiff must prove, the plaintiff not only has the burden of proving negligence, but also that such negligence was a proximate cause of the [injury] [damage].

Proximate cause is a cause which in a natural and continuous sequence produces a person's [injury] [damage], and is a cause which a reasonable and prudent health care provider could have foreseen would probably produce such [injury] [damage] or some similar injurious result.

surgeon lives up to the foregoing requirements he is not civilly liable for the consequences. If he fails in any one particular requirement, and such failure is the proximate cause of injury or damage, he is liable."

5 N.C. Gen. Stat. § 90-21.12 provides the following about the "Standard of health care": In any action for damages for personal injury or death arising out of the furnishing or the failure to furnish professional services in the performance of medical, dental, or other health care, the defendant shall not be liable for the payment of damages unless the trier of the facts is satisfied "by the greater weight of the evidence that the care of such health care provider was not in accordance with the standards of practice among members of the same health care profession with similar training and experience situated in the same or similar communities at the time of the alleged act giving rise to the cause of action." Prior to this revision to N.C.P.I.—Civil 809.00, the "specialist" instruction (former N.C.P.I.—Civil 809.10) was sometimes given. It has been deleted because it is viewed as redundant to the statutory standard.

NOTE WELL: In cases where the evidence may give rise to a finding that there was a negligent delay in diagnosing or treating the plaintiff, and there is conflicting evidence on whether the delay increased the probability of injury or death sufficiently to amount to proximate cause of the injury or death, the trial court should further explain proximate cause.⁷ A similar rule applies in cases where a different treatment probably would have improved the chances of survival or recovery.⁸ The following special instruction should be given in these circumstances:

[It is not enough for the plaintiff to show that [different treatment] [earlier [diagnosis] [treatment] [hospitalization]] of [name plaintiff] [name decedent] would have improved his chances of survival and recovery. Rather, the plaintiff must prove that it is probable that a different outcome would have occurred with [different treatment] [earlier [diagnosis] [treatment] [hospitalization]]. The plaintiff must prove by the greater weight of the evidence that the [treatment] [alleged delay in [diagnosis] [treatment] [hospitalization]] more likely than not caused the [name the injury or precipitating condition] [and death] of [name plaintiff] [name decedent].⁹

There may be more than one proximate cause of [an injury] [damage]. Therefore, the plaintiff need not prove that the defendant's negligence was the sole proximate cause of the [injury] [damage]. The plaintiff must prove, by the greater weight of the evidence, only that the defendant's negligence was a proximate cause.

In this case, the plaintiff contends, and the defendant denies, that the defendant was negligent in (one or more of) the following way(s):

(Read all contentions of negligence supported by the evidence.)

[The (state number) contention is that the defendant failed to use his best judgment in the treatment and care of his patient in that (describe specific conduct supported by the evidence).]

[The (state number) contention is that the defendant failed to use reasonable care and diligence in the application of his knowledge and skill to his patient's care in that (describe specific conduct supported by the evidence).]

[The (state number) contention is that the defendant failed to provide health care in accordance with the standards of practice among members of the same health care profession with similar training and experience situated in the same or similar communities at the time the health care was rendered in that (describe specific conduct supported by the evidence).]

The plaintiff further contends, and the defendant denies, that the defendant's negligence was a proximate cause of the plaintiff's [injury] [damage].

I instruct you that negligence is not to be presumed from the mere fact of [injury] [damage].¹⁰

*(Give law as to each contention of negligence included above.)*¹¹

¹⁰ The application of the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur in medical negligence actions is "somewhat restrictive." Schaffner v. Cumberland Cnty. Hosp. Sys., 77 N.C. App. 689, 691, 336 S.E.2d 116, 118 (1985). There must be proof that the injury or death would rarely occur in the absence of medical negligence. Id. However, expert testimony is not invariably required in all cases. Id. See also Tice v. Hall, 310 N.C. 589, 592–94, 313 S.E.2d 565, 567 (1984). Compare Koury v. Follo, 272 N.C. 366, 373, 158 S.E.2d 548, 554 (1967); Starnes v. Taylor, 272 N.C. 386, 391, 158 S.E.2d 339, 343 (1967); Cameron v. Howard, 40 N.C. App. 66, 68, 251 S.E.2d 900, 901–02 (1979); Thompson v. Lockhart, 34 N.C. App. 1, 7, 237 S.E.2d 259, 263 (1977). If the case involves issues both of direct and circumstantial proof of negligence (i.e., res ipsa loquitur), N.C.P.I.—Civil 809.05 should be used instead of this charge.

[With respect to the plaintiff's (state number) contention, a health care provider has a duty to provide health care in accordance with the standards of practice among members of the same health care profession with similar training and experience situated in the same or similar communities at the time the health care is rendered. In order for you to find that the defendant failed to meet this duty, the plaintiff must satisfy you, by the greater weight of the evidence, first, what the standards of practice were among members of the same health care profession with similar training and experience situated in the same or similar communities at the time the defendant (describe health care service rendered, e.g., "operated on the plaintiff"), and, second, that the defendant did not act in accordance with those standards of practice. In determining the standards of practice applicable to this contention,¹² you must weigh and consider the testimony of the 11 This instruction must be modified to add additional elements of proof if there is a question of fact as to whether the defendant is a health care provider as defined by N.C. Gen. Stat. § 90-21.11 or whether the defendant was engaged in furnishing professional health care services to the plaintiff or plaintiff's decedent.

12 For cases arising on or after 1 October 2011, Rule 702(a) of the North Carolina Rules of Evidence requires that before an expert can testify "in the form of an opinion, or otherwise": (1) the testimony must be "based on sufficient facts or data"; (2) the testimony must be the product of "reliable principles and methods"; and (3) the "witness has applied the principles and method reliably to the facts of the case." A violation of this duty is negligence.]

(Now, members of the jury, I have some additional instructions for you to consider in relation to the [duty] [duties] I have just described. *Select from the following, as appropriate:*¹⁴

(Duty to Attend. A health care provider is not bound to render professional services to everyone who applies. However, when a health care provider undertakes the care and treatment of a patient, (unless otherwise limited by contract,) the relationship cannot be terminated at the mere will of the health care provider. The relationship must continue until the treatment is no longer required, until it is dissolved by the consent of the parties or until notice is given which allows the patient a reasonable opportunity to engage the services of another health care provider.¹⁵ The failure of the health care provider to use reasonable care and judgment in determining when his attendance may properly and safely be discontinued is negligence. Whether he has used reasonable care and judgment must be determined by comparison with the standards of practice among members of opinion testimony may be used. See N.C. R. Evid. 701 and Schaffner, 77 N.C. App. at 691, 336 S.E.2d at 118 (stating that expert testimony is not invariably required in all cases).

(Highest Degree of Skill Not Required. The law does not require of a health care provider absolute accuracy, either in his practice or in his judgment. It does not hold him to a standard of infallibility, nor does it require of him the utmost degree of skill and learning known only to a few in his profession.
