<sup>1</sup>See State v. Boggess, 358 N.C. 676, 600 S.E.2d 453 (2004), where the Court held that it was error to add the extraneous language "you should decide the question of punishment according to the issues submitted to you by the Court, wholly uninfluenced by consideration of what another arm of the government might or might not do in the future."
