

204A.32 INJURY TO DETER ASSISTING ANOTHER IN CRIMINAL GANG WITHDRAWAL. FELONY.

NOTE WELL: This instruction is to be used for offenses occurring on or after December 1, 2017.

The defendant has been charged with injuring a person with the intent to deter a person from assisting another to withdraw from membership in a criminal gang.

For you to find the defendant guilty of this offense, the State must prove two things beyond a reasonable doubt:

First, that the defendant injured the alleged victim.

And Second, that the defendant intended¹ to deter (name individual) from assisting another to withdraw from membership in a criminal gang.

A criminal gang is defined as any ongoing organization, association, or group of three or more persons, whether formal or informal, that has as one of its primary activities the commission of criminal or delinquent acts and shares a common name, identification, signs, symbols, tattoos, graffiti, attire, or other distinguishing characteristics, including common activities, customs, or behaviors. This term shall not include three or more persons associated in fact, whether formal or informal, who are not engaged in criminal gang activity.²

If you find from the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that on or about the alleged date, the defendant injured the alleged victim with the intent to deter (name individual) from assisting another to withdraw from membership in a criminal gang, it would be your duty to return a verdict of guilty. If you do not so find or have a reasonable doubt as to one or both of these things, it would be your duty to return a verdict of not guilty.
